On August 30, 1960, John Deere dealers from around the world converged on Dallas, Texas, for an unprecedented product showcase. Deere Day in Dallas, as the event was called, introduced the world to the New Generation of Power, the company's first modern four and six cylinder tractors, during a day packed with high-tech presentations, live demonstrations, and of course a parking lot full of brand-new green and yellow machines. It was the most important change to the company's products in 42 years. By 1966 Sales of the 4020 accounted for 48% of all John Deere tractor sales.
